

Application – Ph.D. Minor in Education

Stanford Graduate School of Education
Academic Services
485 Lasuen Mall
Stanford, CA 94305-3096

The Ph.D. Minor in Education is intended for doctoral students at Stanford who would like to earn a Minor in Education while studying for their Ph.D. in another department or school outside of the GSE. Students must take at least 20 units of Education courses taught by GSE faculty (courses may be cross-listed). All courses must be at or above the 200 level, and at least 15 units must be taken for a letter grade. Students should also select an area of concentration within the GSE, which they should address in their statement.

Application Procedures: Submit application packet to the Assistant Director of Degree Programs, in the Academic Services Office in Cubberley 141. The application packet consists of the following:

1. Graduate School of Education's application, including program proposal (this two-page form);
2. A statement of purpose indicating the relevance of a Minor in Education to the student's doctoral degree and the academic rationale for the program proposal (1 page);
3. Registrar's Application for PhD Minor form (http://studentaffairs.stanford.edu/sites/default/files/registrar/files/app_phd_minor.pdf)

The Associate Dean of Student Affairs will review the application. If admitted to the program, a Graduate Program Authorization Petition must be submitted by the student in Axess and be approved by the student's home department.

There is no application deadline for the Ph.D. Minor in Education. Applications are accepted throughout the year.
